

Cookies Policy

Helena Kennedy Foundation (“us”, “we”, or “our”) uses cookies on the Helena Kennedy Foundation Website (the “Service”). By using the Service, you consent to the use of cookies.

Our Cookies Policy explains what cookies are, how we use cookies, how third-parties we may partner with may use cookies on the Service, and your choices regarding cookies.

What are cookies?

Cookies are small pieces of text sent by your web browser by a website you visit. A cookie file is stored in your web browser and allows the Service or a third-party to recognize you and make your next visit easier and the Service more useful to you.

Cookies can be “persistent” or “session” cookies.

A persistent cookie helps us recognize you as an existing user, so it’s easier to return to the website or interact with our services without signing in again. After you sign in, a persistent cookie stays in your browser and will be read by Helena Kennedy Foundation when you return to the website. Session cookies only last for as long as the session (usually the current visit to a website or a browser session).

How Helena Kennedy Foundation uses cookies

When you use and access the Service, we may place a number of cookies files in your web browser.

We may use persistent cookies for the following purposes:

- to provide Google analytics of the site so that we can see how you are using our website by tracking which pages you visit, what devices you access them from, how long you stayed on the website for, plus much more (if setup and Installed).
- Human verification to protect the site against co-ordinated hacking attempts
- Third party cookies which are placed when third party components load such as the map on our contact page, and embedded video players. The third parties use these cookies to monitor the performance of their content. If you happen to have an account with one of these third parties and are 'logged in' your activity on our website may be recorded in your account with the third party. Helena Kennedy Foundation has no access to this third-party information.

We use some session cookies on the Helena Kennedy Foundation website but none of these result in any tracking.
